

Resources for Rental Payments, Utilities, and Food and More

As the State of California and our communities mobilize to slow the spread of novel coronavirus (COVID-19), our hearts go out to all those who have been affected by this horrible outbreak. At Sac City Rentals, we want you to know how we're supporting these efforts and our clients in this difficult time. We will continue to share resources as they become available, in a small attempt to soften the impact of this crisis.

If you need help with paying your rent or bills, including your electric or heating bills, you can look into local or national charities as well as non-profit organizations. A number of other services may be provided by a charity, including free food, housing, basic needs such as clothing, and much more. The type of financial assistance provided will vary. However, various programs and services are offered by charities, as noted below.

Unfortunately, the resources available from these organizations tends to be limited, and only a certain number of people can be assisted. This is mostly due to the high demand placed on the charities. Much of the aid is focused on people who are most at risk. This can include senior citizens, families with very young children, single moms, and the disabled. Even if a charity or non-profit can't meet your needs, ask them for referrals. Or maybe they have a waiting list that you can sign up for.
